LITERARY NOTES.

In addition to all the other interesting articles contained in the January "Atlantic," of which there is never any lack, the present number contains, "Two Bites of a Cherry" by Mr. Aldrich, the editor of the magazine. A story full of pathos, and of that rare individuality which so markedly belongs alone to Mr. Aldrich. The opening chapters of Charles Egbert Craddock's new serial "In the Clouds," is followed by a paper on "The Free Negroes of North Carolina" (who were free during the slave regime) by Mr. David Dodge. Dr. Holmes has a paper in the New Portfolio series, "A Cry from the Study," full of pleasant reminiscences and pungent humor. "The Political Consequences in England of Cornwallis's Surrender" forms the subject of a thoughtful article by Mr. John Fiske. Highly interesting installments of "The Princess Casamassima," by Henry James, and Mrs. Oliphant's "A Country Gentleman," are also given in this issue. "Glaucus," an exquisite poem by Elith M. Thomas, lines by the late H. H., and some verses by Julie K. Wetherill furnish the poetry of the number. The recent Life of William Lloyd Garrison, Steadman's Poets of America, and the last number of L'Art form the subject of able criticisms while the Contributors' Club has four short discussions which are full of the stimulating thought and pleasant fancy that distinguish this department. The number closes with the usual resume of books of the month, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

A work of much interest, relating to the progress of the human race, will be published next month by Messrs. Doyle & Whittle of Boston. The title of the volume will be "Where Are We and Whither Tending?" Its author is the Rev. M. Harvey, of St. John's, Newfoundland, a gentleman of ripe scholarly attainments. In England Mr. Harvey has won a wide reputation as a thinker, and as a writer of marked ability. The "Encyclopaedia Britannica" and "Johnson's Universal Cyclopaedia" (new edition) contain a number of articles from his pen, the subjects being those upon which Mr. Harvey is an acknowledged authority.

"Edge Tools of Speech" is the unique title of a forthcoming work from the press of Ticknor & Co., of Boston. The book will be a collection of spoken and written wise and practical sayings of the great thinkers and writers of all ages. Its editor is Mr. Maturin M. Ballou, whose former compilations have justly won for him an enviable reputation for accuracy and excellent taste. "Edge Tools of Speech" will be a valuable and reliable addition to works of the class. Literarians will anticipate, with pleasure, its publication.

The "Lippincott Magazine" has done a good thing in substituting for the formerly used double column, the book page, thus allowing the use of large type. A great gain is also obtained in appearance not only, but a decided advantage is afforded to the reader's eyes. The January number of this periodical is full of interesting articles. Among them is the first chapter of the new serial, called "Taken by Siege." The story was published by a friend of the author, and, being written out by a type writer, no clew could be obtained. The story was at once accepted on its merits after one reading, and it is believed that it will prove one of the most entertaining novels of the season. The scene of the story is laid in New York, and the editor is of the opinion that it will not be difficult for New York readers to detect the model after whom the heroine was portrayed.

—Mr. George W. Cable's new novel, of Arcadian life in Louisiana, will be called "Grande Point."

—Miss Rose Porter has compiled a volume from the writings of Canon Farrar which will be published by D. Lothrop & Co. under the title of "Treasure Thoughts."

—"Ouida" has, to all appearances, been secured as a regular contributor to the "North American Review," and an article by her on "Some Fallacies of Science" is announced as one of the leading features of the forthcoming February number.

—A poem by Whittier, entitled "The Homestead," and an article by Abbott Lawrence Seawell discussing the "Ministerial Responsibility and the Constitution" are announced among the attractions for the "Atlantic" for February.

—The "British Navy" contribution of Sir Edward Reed, to be published in the February issue of "Harper's Magazine," is to be followed during the year with a series of articles which will treat on the Continental navies. The papers will be written with a special view to more plainly pointing out—if that indeed be possible—the defenseless condition of our Atlantic coast cities.

—Mr. Marion Crawford's new novel, "The Scholar's Romance," will not be brought out until late in March. The story is represented as a strong tale of modern European times, and contains many striking passages for the display of the author's talents as a writer. The book will be brought out in size and binding uniform with "Zoroaster."

—Miss J. L. Gilder, editor of "The Critic," has prepared a novel poetic anthology, described by its title "Representative Poems of Living Poets, Selected by the Poets Themselves." Some seventy or eighty poets will be represented. The volume will be issued by Cassell & Co. The same publishers announce a new volume by Lieut. Schwatka, "Along Alaska's Great River," an account of the exploring expedition of 1883; and a volume of the poems of Miss Helen Gray Cone, a frequent contributor to the magazines.

—Good novels are always in season, especially when so good as Dr. Holmes's new story, "A Mortal Antipathy," which may be accounted a kind of combination of the "Autocrat of the Breakfast Table" and "Elsie Venner;" Charles Egbert Craddock's new story, "The Prophet of the Great Smoky Mountains;" Miss Jewett's delightful stories, "A Marsh Island" and "A Country Doctor;" Mrs. Whitney's new story, "Bonnyborough;" Dr. Weir Mitchell's striking story, "In War Time." Space fails to name all the good recent novels. Readers will do well to send for Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s catalogue, which contains many notable novels as well as standard and popular books in many departments of literature, and finely engraved portraits of thirty-eight well-known authors.

—"Called Back" has been translated into Spanish and is issued by D. Appleton & Co. in light blue paper covers, at fifty cents per volume. About 2000 copies were ordered while the book was still in press. It is the first novel translated from the English for the Appletons' Spanish Department, and its success has determined them to follow it up with others. The title of this new version of Hugh Conway's popular romance is "Misterio."

—Prof. J. R. Seeley's "Short History of Napoleon," soon to be published by Roberts Brothers, will contain a portrait of Napoleon after Bailly. The resemblance is said to be marked in accuracy.

—Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, announce the early issue of a volume with the title "Letters to a Daughter," which they hope may prove very acceptable to parents. The author, Mrs. Helen E. Starrett, has had large experience in the training of girls. Her style is clear and entertaining. Added to the nine letters, covering a range of topics from personal manners to mental and spiritual culture, is a "Little Sermon to School girls," which summarizes and enforces the lessons previously inculcated.

—The series of articles upon the causes and chief incidents in the civil war, by Mr. Rossiter Johnson, now being printed in the "Examiner" of this city, will be collected and published in book form upon their completion in that periodical. In this permanent form the papers will doubtless attract more attention than has been bestowed upon them thus far by press or public.

—Mr. Shorthouse's new story, of which the first sketch is nearly completed, will relate to Puritan times, and, like "John Inglesant," will be a novel of theological, philosophical, and political speculations. Mr. Shorthouse works with studious care, and therefore, even though the work might in the case of some writers be said to be "completed," yet Mr. Shorthouse's delight in high finish will possibly delay the printing of his new essay for an indefinite period.

—J. S. Winter, the author of "Boothe's Baby," "Houpha," and other recent military novels, turns out to be a woman. This fact could not be suspected from her writings, in which stories she presents a spirited picture of life in the barracks and service, not only in England, but in the Colonies.

—Mrs. Helen Hunt Jackson's posthumous novel of life in Colorado, which, under the title of "Zeph," is about to be issued by Messrs. Roberts Bros., was written at Los Angeles during the winter of 1884-5. Ill health overtaking the author, and finding herself, in consequence, unable to complete it, she forwarded the manuscript to the Messrs. Roberts, with a few briefly expressed views as to the conclusion of the story, together with a personal note of a touching nature penned by the hand already nearly withered by death.

A work of great interest is announced as the initial literary venture of the "North American Publishing Company," a corporate name secured for the publishing department of the "North American Review." The work will be a volume of "Reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln," contributed by "distinguished men of his time," among whom will be General Grant, Henry Ward Beecher, Walt Whitman, General Benjamin F. Butler, Frederick Douglass, Robert G. Ingersoll, Hon. E. B. Washburne, the late Schuyler Colfax and other eminent statesmen, authors, etc., the collecting and editing of the volume being under the supervision of Mr. Allen Thorndike Rice. The work will be issued early in February, and beside containing the reminiscences and a steel portrait of the martyred President, a portrait of each of the various contributors, together with a biographical sketch, will be included, the whole making a book of some seven or eight hundred pages. The book will be sold only by subscription.

For Sale. A Great Bargain.

That desirable property on the corner of Bellevue avenue and Broad street, fronting the green, containing one and half acres more or less, a dwelling of sixteen rooms, a large barn, carriagehouse, etc., and a great variety of choice fruit. This property is well situated for building purposes. At least six cottages could be erected, without disturbing present buildings, which are very much needed and could be rented readily and would prove a good investment. For further particulars please inquire on premises of
